Principal's Message to the Class of 1980

Our country faces today a serious crisis arising from the dual problems of inflation and energy. These problems will continue to be with us for many years and can only be solved through the efforts of an educated, aware, and concerned citizenry. You, the graduating class of June 1980, must plan an important role in this process. In order to accomplish this you have already taken a big step forward by completing your high school education. However, you must not stop here. Upon graduation, whether you enter the job market or continue with your formal training, your education will not stop as education is a continuing process. There are many options open to you and the more you know about yourself and the world about you, the greater the likelihood of your success and the greater the opportunity for you to contribute to a better society. We look to you, the graduates, to improve upon our present democratic process. We look to you to put forth your best efforts to your work and your community.

It is our fervent wish that each of you leaves PARK WEST HIGH SCHOOL with a dream to make this world a better place for all and that the fulfillment of this vision will justify our work and make us proud of our contribution.

Although you are about to leave us, remember that we are still interested in you, always ready to help you. We believe you, too, will always be interested in your school and its students. Go forth to your well-earned success.

Valedictory

Deryck Dempster
Scholar

Class of 1980

Two years ago two schools, Haaren and Food and Maritime, were united to form the school we know as PARK WEST. No one knew what the outcome of this union would bring. However, we ventured forth in search of new experiences to enrich our lives. We faced many obstacles at the outset but we were able to surpass these (minor) setbacks while keeping our major goals in full view.

It has long been thought that high school is solely a place to which one goes to obtain an education to function in the world around him. However, this concept may not hold true in these times. Today, high school is not only a place to get an education, it is, also, a place in which to grow and mature. Interacting with other students and teachers helps one to cope with the people in the outside world.

Education is a means of self improvement. It makes you better equipped to compete with the people in the world around you. But, on the other hand, has your high school education done for you what you wanted it to do? Have you received a well-rounded education to prepare you for college or the job market? Some may say, yes, and some, no. But if the answer is, no, do we look for other people or excuses on which we might place the blame? One must accept what has happened because no one will be able to reverse the things that have already happened. We have to look toward the future and make sure that these misfortunes do not repeat themselves. Make no mistake, there will be obstacles along the way that must be overcome but they must not be allowed to get in the way of your pursuit of success.

Graduation has different meanings for everyone. For some, it is a new beginning allowing them to go on to different types of higher education. For others it means freedom to go into the job market or the armed forces. It can, also, be thought of as an ending of twelve years of school and relationships with other students. However, with this ending there is a new beginning that will be more profound than ever before. You will not be judged as the child you once were but as the adult you have become.

I'm real,
touch me and see.
Believe me, honestly,
I am only half of an illusion.

I am full of love and jive
Just trying to survive Living off a donation
a penny and two bits Matching wits with
"Miss" Fortune and
"Miss" Understanding and waiting for "Lady Luck."

I just may turn out to be A winner who never won or I just might be a sinner
Just having fun, enjoying
The hell out of the life that I'm living While on vacation from my occupation
As a full-time Evangelist.

I am a singer-poet ex-cop
Who won't stop until I reach
The top of the bottom or
The bottom of the top Getting a good feeling from everyone
I touch along the way to my destiny.

—Rich Bartee

"Half of an Illusion"

With cheerful thoughts and things to be cherished
We look back at the things
We've accomplished.
And we remember the years—
Years of toil and tears.
And when we think that we are done,
We've only just begun.

The

only way to survive in this world . . .

is for one to know his or her value,
to determine what your contribution to creation will be.
Once you identify with yourself, then you will be able to live, love, respect your brothers and sisters.
We are very lucky to have survived the journey from the womb of our physical mothers.
The odds were against us, but we survived that environment and made it useful to our growth and development.
Now we are in the womb of the universe
And we must make this hostile environment useful to our physical, mental and spiritual growth.
Nobody knows all. Each day we live, we learn life can be beautiful to those who investigate and come to a level of universal awareness.
Don't let this cold, cold world get you down.
Be strong!

Just as the darkness is separate

All having a particular character that makes it different;
Just as we identify hot from cold
It is important that we now identify within ourselves who we are.
Are you in the dark? If so, ask somebody to assist you to the light of understanding. You MUST know who you are and you MUST know those things and people with whom you associate.

The day has come for those who Try to be righteous to find each other and strengthen each other Share the information we've accumulated by our experiences and Take a stand against evil and its kind.
We have to make a decision on self. Face
The reality of growing truth.
How strong is your faith? How broad is your understanding?
The answer to all the problems with which We are faced as a part of creation is in you (US).

"Identification"

. . . and in rhyme

A piece of clay molded and shaped Gradually takes form.
Rough edges polished
drying slowly,
Hardening with the passage of time
Until every touch no longer Leaves an impression. A definite form, unchangeable
even by its creator.
For, now, the child is grown!

—Maurice Allen

If there is someone who really cares about you—
Someone who's proud of the things you do, Who's glad when you're happy and blue when you're sad Who sees all your good points and Seldom the bad . . .

If there's someone who shares all your worries and woes
And who's always beside you, however life goes,
Who's concerned for your happiness
your comfort and health!
This is your treasure—this is your wealth.

Love your friends and love them well
But to your friends no secrets tell
For if your friend becomes your foe
Your secrets everyone will know.

I'm too young for moonlight walks
I'm too young for romantic talks
I'm too young to come in late
I'm too young to have a date
But I'm not too young to dream.

I'm too young for this
I'm too young to kiss
I'm too young for that I'm too young for Mack
But I'm not too young to dream.

I may be young in age
But old in mind
So why must I be locked in A cage, for this modern time.

I'm too young for high-heeled shoes
I'm too young for singing the blues
I'm too young to have much money
I'm too young to get so lonely
But I'm not too young to dream.

Yolanda DeJesus

Love is such a simple game
Roll the dice and move up two spaces;
Leave behind a broken heart at
The next roll of the die.
Take a change of route and start again.

Someone's soul, torn apart because You passed "go" and did not stop.
Love is such a simple game
It's not hard to win.

Whoever loves least, wins.
Whoever is stronger, wins.
Is love a simple game?

—Maurice Allen

rushing—still trying to look your best?

. . . walking that crosstown beat to P.W. greeting your friends with one quick, hello!

. . . security guards standing at the door to inform you, "Five minutes more."

. . . rushing to class to get to your seat then finding the teacher absent—"TREAT."

. . . once in a while, homework late not your fault, just forgot the date.

. . . lunchtime—forty minutes to eat—your hero filled with stuff called meat.

. . . sun shining outside, coming on strong just can't stay in school—but that's wrong. cutting out of school, missing the class—hanging in the park to make time pass.

. . . grubbing a cigarette from a friend smoking
it down to the short, hot end.

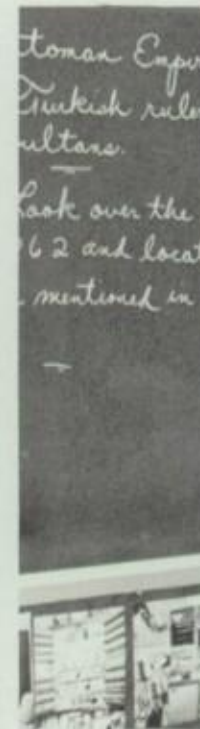

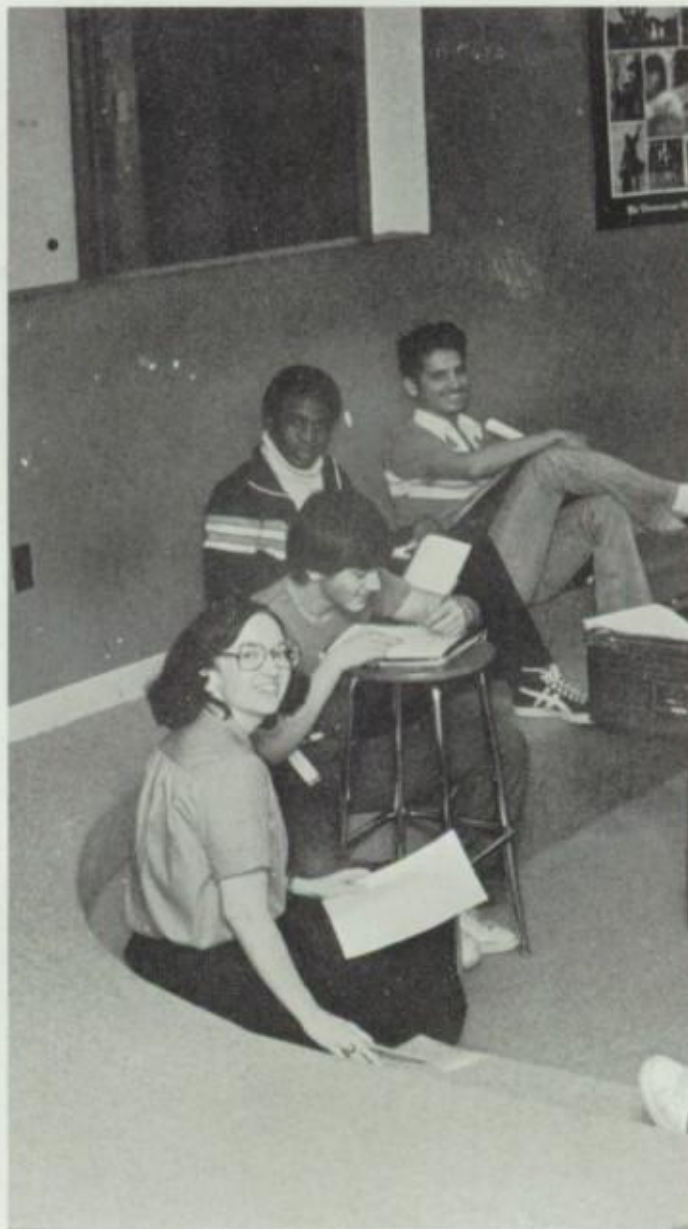

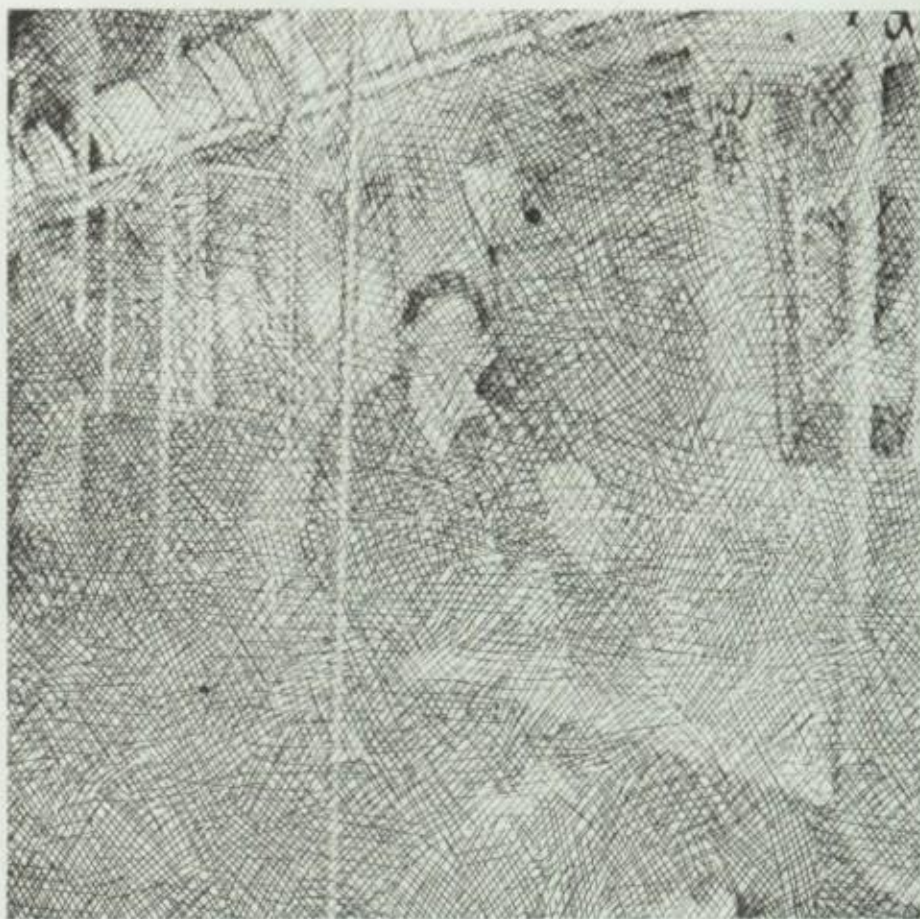

. . . they start asking for ring orders and senior dues; for some strange reason you start getting the blues.

. . . Oh, wow, no more rushing grabbing trains running to classes; no more "out of the halls" "line up here," "come out and show your passes."

. . . Now I ask myself: "Where has the time gone?" No more teachers—no more chaperone.
"How have I succeeded—what do I lack?"

. . . Still there are so many fond memories as I look back.

—Maurice Allen

You want to sit and talk and rap a while You want to roam about in the bumper's style.

You need a little help with a particular situation Where you cut down on the numbers for serious conversation.

Or maybe you just want to "hang"
with the least amount of static From do-gooder people or some jive-time manic.

Well, if you know what to do and keep your game on "steady"
You know where to go, who to call—you check out your buddy!

Some faces
we will not soon forget.

Two ways to make graduation a beginning.

The Active Army

Enlist in the Army when you finish school. You'll start the education of your life. You'll become skilled at one of our more than 200 specialties. (And you get to keep that skill for life.)

You'll get a chance to travel. And, if you choose, a chance to earn college credit during off-duty time. With the Army paying up to 75% of the tuition.

So don't think of graduation as the end of high school. Think of it as the beginning of the rest of your life. Make it a good beginning.

The Army Reserve

Perhaps 3 or 4 years away from home is the last thing you want right now. But the first thing you need is an opportunity.

Then the Army Reserve is for you.

You're away from home only a few months (earning full Army pay). The first 8 weeks are Basic Training, where you'll learn to be a soldier. Then comes Advanced Training, where you learn a skill.

When you go home, your skill goes with you. It earns you over $50 for 16 hours (usually one week-end) a month. And full Army pay for two weeks Annual Training every year.

FOR MORE INFORMATION ABOUT ALL THE OPPORTUNITIES IN TODAY'S ACTIVE ARMY AND ARMY RESERVE MARK THE APPROPRIATE BLOCK ON THE READER SERVICE CARD OR CALL YOUR LOCAL ARMY REPRESENTATIVE.

ADVENTURE ISN'T DEAD.

It's alive and well in the U.S. Navy. You can find it every day on Navy ships all over the world.

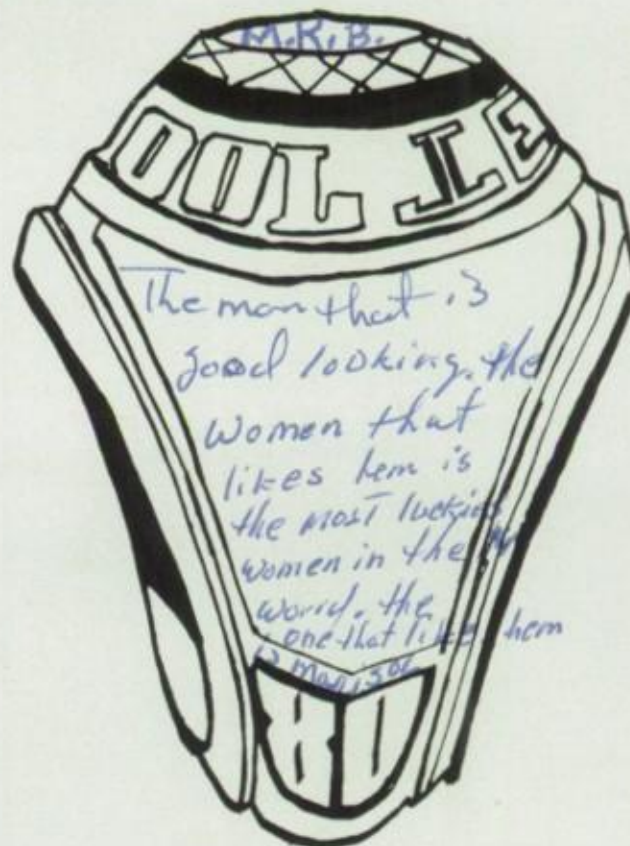

In the Navy, you can work with the most advanced technical equipment known to man. You can cruise under the North Pole in a submarine. You can launch jets off the deck of an aircraft carrier. You can travel, make new friends, even complete your education.

The Navy can give you training in more than 60 career fields. Talk it over with your Navy recruiter who will be able to tell you what you can qualify for in the Navy.
